GOODBYE LECTURE HALL— U. OF I. MOVES FREE COURSES ONLINE

Chicago Tribune

The University of Illinois will offer seven free online courses this fall, giving students around the world a chance to sample an education that costs thousands of dollars in tuition on campus.

By teaming up with Coursera, one of several new online education companies, the university will dip a toe into a fast-growing trend in higher education to offer free courses to an unlimited number of students. It's a low-risk venture compared with the U. of I.'s failed and expensive Global Campus online initiative from several years ago.

The Urbana-Champaign campus is one of a dozen universities that on Tuesday planned to announce partnerships with California-based Coursera, joining Princeton University, Stanford University, the University of Michigan and the University of Pennsylvania, which joined earlier this year.

"As the only land-grant university on the list, we have expertise in areas that others don't. We will be able to offer courses that no other university has in their repertoire," said Phyllis Wise, chancellor of the Urbana-Champaign campus.

The courses won't count toward a degree, however. And the university may be able to make money off the venture, either through a fee for course-completion certificates or the sale of students' names to potential employers.

The first U. of I. courses—in subjects including organic chemistry, microeconomics and programming for smartphones—will

CLASS SYLLABUS

The University of Illinois at Urbana-Champaign will offer its first seven free online courses this fall:

- » Creative, Serious and Playful Science of Android Apps
- » Planet Earth
- » Heterogeneous Parallel Programming
- » Elementary Organic Chemistry
- » Microeconomics Principles
- » Introduction to Sustainability
- » VLSI CAD: Logic to Layout

begin this fall. Future online classes could include veterinary medicine and agriculture.

"I would love to see a future where UIUC is teaching not just thousands of students, but millions," said Coursera co-founder Andrew Ng, a Stanford computer science professor who started the company last year after an online course he taught drew more than 100,000 students worldwide.

While the Coursera-hosted courses are free, the U. of I. may charge students $30 to $80 for a certificate showing they successfully completed the course. Ng said the U. of I. would get some of that revenue.

He said the company also is working on an arrangement where employers could pay to receive the names of high-achieving students who opt-in to share their information. Universities also would get a portion of that revenue.

Wise said the U. of I. approached Coursera because it was eager to join what some are calling a revolution in higher education. Coursera, founded last year by Ng and another Stanford professor, has offered 43 courses since April. More than 680,000 students from 190 countries have enrolled in them, the company says.

We're not helpless against city crime

Grant Yanney

✉ redeye@tribune.com

Fair warning: I got a brand new iPhone last month, and if any joker even looks at me wrong on the Green Line, I'm pressing charges. I'm not about to become the latest statistic in my own city.

Of course, I'm not planning to whip out a $400 device all willy-nilly without paying attention, but it's rough out there—reports of more robberies on the CTA, summer mob attacks downtown...and worse. Not that I need to tell anyone who's lived here longer than a month. Here's one startling indicator: Chicago surpassed 250 homicides for the year faster than it had since 2003, according to RedEye and police data.

I know I'm not alone when I say I'm tired of cowardly individuals terrorizing the citizens in my own city—both in the long-suffering neighborhoods and in communities you don't normally associate with violent crime. We have to do something to save these lost souls in Chicago—and we can.

I'm certainly no expert in these matters, but I was born and raised on the South Side, the city's homicide hub. I've spent time working with underprivileged youth, and I understand some of the root problems.

So what can we, the people, do about it? More than you may think. Just a few humble thoughts, off the top of my dome:

- Cut any "no-snitch" talk out of our vocabularies. As a community, we've got to stop empowering destructive—and sometimes deadly—behavior. If we see something on the CTA or elsewhere, we need to speak up. That's not the message we're used to hearing from pop culture, but it's either that or risk becoming the next victim.

- Invest in the youth. Many of them are misled and in need of more role models and positive outlets for their energy. Some of these troublemaking kids have nothing to do. Let's lobby our city, state and federal representatives to get more funds to strengthen important social service agencies and build more facilities in at-risk areas. Centers such as the YMCA helped keep me out of trouble as a youth. (Shouts to YBA basketball and the Jackie Robinson youth baseball league.)

- Support the police. Big ups to all Chicago law enforcement, CeaseFire, Guardian Angels and other groups who courageously lead by example. That's some serious work. Rahm, I'm certain the officers could use more backup in these streets. Let's make that happen. But you don't have to be a cop to help out; you can join a block club or attend a local CAPS meeting.

Of course, if it were as easy as simply implementing my three suggestion grooves, Chicago would be virtually crime free. And it's not even close to that easy. I know that.

But we can put some of the misguided pride aside. It's OK to look out for one another, to take back our city from the people who do nothing for it. We can write letters to our leaders, reminding them what's going on in these wards. Encourage more positive conversations among our peers. And help increase accountability and raise awareness.

It can get better. It will get better.

WHAT YOU MISSED IN SOCIAL MEDIA

Happy Humpday! Before we launch into the latter part of the week, it's time to catch up on just a few things you might have missed this week in the land of social media.

JESSICA GALLIART, SOCIAL MEDIA LADY

Louis C.K. and Daniel Tosh

Remember that tweet comedian Louis C.K. (@louisck) sent to Daniel Tosh last week, allegedly in defense of Tosh's rape joke? (@danieltosh your show makes me laugh every time I watch it. And you have pretty eyes.) Yeah, no—he was just on vacation. Monday, Louis C.K. clarified on "The Daily Show": He was in Vermont, watching "Tosh.O" on Comedy Central and had no idea what was going on in the real world. Whoops.

More Facebook notifications!

Cool, just what we need. Now, whenever a Facebook friend gets engaged or married, you'll receive a notification about it on the top right corner of your home page, where birthday announcements also are made. When do we get notifications when our friend finally breaks up with his awful girlfriend?

An American Olympian in London

Lots of them, actually. And despite the intense training, many of them still find the time to tweet. Follow Chicago-born track star Wallace Spearmon Jr. (@PrinceSpearmon) for some fun updates from an American and his adventures in Europe.

NEW HOT BLOCKS

HEY, NEIGHBOR: WE CAN TELL YOU HOW TO GET TO THE 4 TRENDIEST STRIPS IN CHICAGO DINING

By Lisa Arnett | REDEYE

All around Chicago, restaurants and bars are in a constant cycle of opening and closing. As the lights go out at a kitchen in Andersonville, a new tavern is putting up signs in the South Loop, and it's all just part of the circle of nightlife. But if you look closely, you'll see a handful of in-the-works hangouts making a few already hot downtown blocks even hotter. Read on for four good guesses as to where the city's foodies and scenesters will be flocking in upcoming months.

Grab your cowboy boots and join RJ and Jerrod Melman (Lettuce Entertain You founder Rich Melman's sons, who also run Paris Club, Hub 51 and RPM Italian, all nearby) at this country western bar, due to open in late September or early October in partnership with the founders of live country music joint Joe's Bar. A basement bar serving classic tiki cocktails likely will be one the most talked-about bar openings of the year.

FULTON BETWEEN MORGAN & SANGAMON

With chefs Grant Achatz and Homaro Cantu each running two restaurants on the south side of the street, there's a lot of star power on this single Fulton Market block. A long-awaited Latin-inspired restaurant from a longtime local chef moving in across the street only adds to the appeal.

Moto

La Sirena Clandestina 954 W. Fulton Market (across the street)

After a great run at Latin-inspired Mas and hopping around to other restaurants in recent years, chef John Manion is poised for a standout project at his own restaurant, slated for a mid-August opening. He calls his style of contemporary cuisine "Latin local," influenced by his time spent in Brazil and Argentina as well as nearly 20 years cooking in Chicago.

HUBBARD BETWEEN CLARK & LASALLE

Hubbard Street's east end long has been dense with restaurants and bars lined up side by side, but within the past year and a half, this block on the street's west side has filled in—and the crowds have followed.

Slurping Turtle 116 W. Hubbard St.

This noodle shop's offerings go beyond ramen.

Epic 112 W. Hubbard St.

IN THE WORKS

Unnamed bar/restaurant 111 W. Hubbard St.

Owners (and brothers) Nader, Fadi and Rafid Hindo of Hubbard Partners along with operating partner Jason Freiman (Bangers & Lace, The Anthem, Lumen) have started construction on a bar/restaurant to open in early 2013. Details are under wraps, but Nader said both food and drinks will be central. In other words, "It's not going to be olives and popcorn," Nader said.

The Aviary 955 W. Fulton Market

The liquid version of Achatz's Alinea.

Next 953 W. Fulton Market

Tables at Grant Achatz's globe-hopping (and sometimes time-traveling), tickets-only restaurant still are highly coveted.

RANDOLPH BETWEEN PEORIA & GREEN

Randolph Street has upheld its Restaurant Row nickname for years, but this particular block has doubled in foodie appeal with the recent openings of Nellcote and "MasterChef" judge Graham Elliot's G.E.B. With a swanky champagne bar debuting soon, it's about to see even more action.

COMING SOON

RM Champagne Salon 116 N. Green St. (around the corner)

Promise of cheese, chocolate, champagne and a cobblestone alley entrance have plenty of oenophiles ready to pop the cork when this lounge opens in late July. Jason Wagner serves as sommelier while Nate Meads (formerly of Fritz Pastry) tackles the sweets.

G.E.B.

841 W. Randolph St.

Graham Elliot has called the location of his newest restaurant "one of the coolest blocks in the whole city."

Nellcote

833 W. Randolph St.

Flour-milling, pizza-baking, pasta-rolling palace.

Cops arrest Epstein fan

Massachusetts woman who showed up at Cubs president's house charged with felony stalking

Kearney

Chicago Tribune

A Massachusetts woman previously warned to stay away from Cubs President Theo Epstein flew to Chicago to stalk him and was arrested after trying to bring a birthday gift for the family's young son to his Lakeview home, prosecutors said in court Tuesday.

Bond was set at $75,000 for Kathleen Kearney, 44, who was charged with two felony counts of stalking after her arrest at about 6 p.m. Monday in the 1400 block of West Addison Street, about two blocks from Epstein's five-bedroom home.

The petite, brown-haired defendant stood in court dressed in a floral-print shirt and white shorts and twisted her fingers behind her back as prosecutors detailed the charges. She spoke only to tell the judge she had worked as a librarian at Le Cordon Bleu culinary school in Boston.

Kearney, of Canton, Mass., had attempted to contact Epstein several times when he was the general manager of the Boston Red Sox,

THE DEFENSE

Kathleen Kearney's court-appointed lawyer said Kearney may be celebrity-obsessed but called the stalking charges "completely overblown." "She rang the doorbell, Mrs. Epstein opened the door and they had a friendly conversation," Assistant Public Defender Anand Sundaram said. "There was no confrontation."

Assistant State's Attorney Lorraine Scaduto said. Recently, she found information about Epstein's new North Side home on the Internet and flew to Chicago on Monday, rented a red Mustang and plugged the address into the car's GPS navigation system, the prosecutor said.

At about 10 a.m. Monday, Kearney approached Epstein's wife at the home and introduced herself, saying, "I'm Kathy, you must be Marie," according to Scaduto. Thinking Kearney was a friendly neighbor, Epstein's wife, Marie, struck up a conversation with her, Scaduto said.

After Kearney started talking about details of the Epsteins' life, including the age of their son, Jack, and said she had a birthday gift for him, Maria Epstein "realized something was amiss" and grew concerned for her safety, Scaduto said. She called her husband after Kearney left, and he contacted Cubs security, which in turn notified the Chicago police.

Epstein
SCOTT STRAZZANTE/TRIBUNE

Meanwhile, Kearney drove to Wrigley Field to look for Epstein "but did not see him," according to Scaduto. Later that day, she returned to the home, saw Epstein walking up to the doorway and tried to call his name to get his attention, but he did not respond, the prosecutor said. Kearney then drove around the block and double-parked on Addison Street, where police spotted her and placed her under arrest.

Epstein had contacted police, according to a police source.

According to police, the officers took Kearney to Epstein's home, where he identified her as the person who previously had been warned about stalking him in Boston.

THE DIGIT

$205 MILLION

The CTA will spend $205 million to upgrade bus and rail maintenance facilities over the next three years with the goal of fostering major improvements in transit service, officials said Tuesday. The modernization project includes replacing bus wash racks and bus repair hoists that are so deteriorated that a bus recently fell off a lift, CTA president Forrest Claypool said at a news conference with Mayor Emanuel at the CTA Kedzie Avenue garage.

4 Boy Scouts keep current gay policy

The Irving, Texas-based Boy Scouts of America on Tuesday reaffirmed the organization's policy of excluding gays, despite recent protest campaigns by members, including some of the group's board. The announcement came after a confidential review.

5 Suspect in custody after bar shooting

A suspect in the early Tuesday assault-rifle shooting at a Tuscaloosa, Ala., bar that left at least 17 wounded has been taken into custody after giving himself up, police said.

Who ordered the PB&J and needle?

6 NEW YORK Delta Air Lines said it was working with federal authorities after what appeared to be sewing needles were found in food on four U.S.-bound flights that left Sunday from Amsterdam, injuring one passenger.

The needles were found in sandwiches made by the airline's Amsterdam caterer, Gate Gourmet, Delta spokeswoman Chris Kelly said in an email Monday. The FBI and Netherlands officials are investigating, Delta said.

"Delta is taking this matter extremely seriously and is cooperating with local and federal authorities who are investigating the incident," the airline said in a statement.

"Delta has taken immediate action with our in-flight caterer at Amsterdam to ensure the safety and quality of the food we provide onboard our aircraft," the statement said.

One person on a flight to Minneapolis was injured but declined medical treatment.

A suspected sewing needle also was found in a sandwich by a passenger on an Atlanta-bound flight. A U.S. air marshal found another while flying on another Atlanta-bound flight.

Another apparent needle was found aboard a Seattle-bound flight in a sandwich that had not been served.

Gate Gourmet is a subsidiary of Swiss-based gategroup Holding AG, one of the largest independent global providers of airline passenger products and services.

START 'EM UP

Chicago Tribune

The Bulls released their preseason schedule Tuesday morning and there's going to be at least one test of the new, Derrick Rose-free, Bench Mob-depleted lineup.

Here are some of the matchups waiting for the team:

OCT. 9

In the preseason opener, the Bulls will go up against the Memphis Grizzlies at the UC.

OCT. 12

Bulls play the Cleveland Cavaliers at the University of Illinois Champaign Urbana.

OCT. 13

Bulls vs. Timberwolves in Minnesota.

OCT. 16

The Milwaukee Bucks will visit Chicago.

OCT. 19

Bulls vs. Timberwolves, this time in the United Center.

OCT. 23

Gulp. The Western Conference champ Oklahoma City Thunder will visit the UC.

OCT. 26

The Bulls play the Indiana Pacers at the University of Notre Dame.

SLOWING DOWN ON 'SEXY'

IS DANICA DITCHING HER PINUP IMAGE FOR SOMETHING FAMILY-FRIENDLY?

By Ryan Smith | FOR REDEYE

Is the Danica Patrick image makeover at full throttle? Recent photos and interviews suggest that after years of bikini-clad appearances in provocative GoDaddy Super Bowl ads or steamy men's magazines pictorials, the racing superstar, who recently turned 30, may be shedding "sexy" for a more conservative image. Here's a look at the evidence that we could be seeing a new Danica at Sunday's Nationwide STP 300 at the Chicagoland Speedway in Joliet. RYAN SMITH IS A REDEYE CONTRIBUTOR.

GoDaddy girl no more

The Web-hosting company—famous for racy ads like the 2008 Super Bowl spot in which Patrick winking talks about her "beaver"—hired a new ad agency, one that founder Bob Parsons told The New York Times will be more businesslike. Danica recently was bumped off the GoDaddy.com home page in favor of fully-clothed Canadian IndyCar driver James Hinchcliffe.

New deal with Coke

Danica's taking a backseat role with GoDaddy, but signed a big endorsement deal for Coke Zero with Coca-Cola—a company known for a more family-friendly approach to advertising. It's unlikely we'll see her in a tube top hanging out with the polar bears anytime soon.

ESPYs look

In the past, Patrick sometimes went the big-hair-and-low-cut-dress route for public appearances. But at last week's ESPY awards in Los Angeles, she wore a classy pink dress and went light on the hairspray and makeup.

GETTY IMAGES

Pretty, not sexy

Danica told reporters earlier this year that she'd rather be called "pretty" than "sexy." "Maybe you guys can answer this question in some way," she told USA Today. "If there is a pretty girl, [reporters] don't know how to describe her other than being sexy. It has such a negative connotation to it. You don't say those kinds of things to frame it like that for a guy or even sometimes talk about it, but it seems like with female athletes, if they are pretty, [reporters] only know how to describe them in a sexual way. I don't care, but I just wonder why we can't talk about it in a different way."

- 1 Does Chris Sale's low velocity mean he has a tired arm?

It all comes down to the rotation.

No, he's just had a tough week at the office! He'll take you to dinner this weekend, OK?

Or Jamie Moyer's arm.

Listen to the Styx song man! You don't always need velocity to "Sale Away."

His arm can be fast asleep as long as he keeps leading the league in ERA.

- 2 Whom should the Bulls get to replace the traded Bench Mob-ers?

The real mob, though they are more black-and-blue than black-and-red.

People that will help win a title. No joke needed.

Players come and go, the Bench Mob shall always remain.

Warm bodies and cap space in preparation for 2013/2014.

Maybe some Starting Mob-ers?

- 3 Why does Ozzie Guillen hate pine tar so much?

He can't get a grip.

Wait, is "pine tar" slang for "Wrigley Field"? That seems odd.

George Brett stole his hemorrhoid pillow, Ozzie never got over it.

Professional jealousy: it gets into more sticky situations than he does.

He's jealous it's the only thing more tacky than him.

- 4 If the Cubs' 2012 season were a reality show, what would it be called?

"Pwn Stars"

"The Never-Ending Struggle" (narrated by Morgan Freeman)

"Rizzolicious"

"The Walking Dead," although it would be an insult to the best show on television.

"The Appalling Race"

- 5 No Fire player made the MLS All-Star game. Fair or unfair?

It's a Chelsea dagger.

Unfair. A party ain't a party if Chicago ain't up in there, man.

FAIR. Baseball could learn a lot from soccer.

Pardo me, but I wanted to Rolfe when I heard Pappa wasn't selected.

More like care or uncare?

Phillies are the most veg-friendly

The home of the Philadelphia Phillies, where hungry baseball fans in a town known for cheesesteaks and hoagies instead can chow down on fake chicken sandwiches, recently was ranked as America's most vegetarian-friendly ballpark by People for the Ethical Treatment of Animals.

Coming in second on PETA's annual list, behind Citizens Bank Park, was Safeco Field in Seattle, which features vegan specialties such as the IchiBan veggie dog and the veggie dog with vegan cream cheese, the organization said.

"Tasty vegetarian food is sweeping the nation, and that trend is especially apparent at the ballpark," PETA Associate Director Chris Holbein said in a release.

Here are the rest of the top 5:

3. Comerica Park in Detroit
4. O.co Coliseum in Oakland
5. Dodger Stadium in Los Angeles

SOB STORY

"If we don't win the gold medal, it's going to be very difficult for us to come back to this country. .... It just seems like there's so many expectations upon us."

Indie-pop act Panoramic & True takes control to turn shyness into something open—and dirty

CHI-TUNES

Andy Downing

» redeye@tribune.com
 » @redeyechimusic

Panoramic & True's sophomore album, "Wonderlust," aspires to the orchestral indie-pop of similarly minded acts like Canadian collective Broken Social Scene.

There's vibrancy and immediacy to P&T's music that was inspired at least in part by the throwback recording process. Rather than working in a computerized studio and Auto-Tuning every note, the band decamped to the attic of frontman John Lennox's Pilsen apartment and recorded everything live to analog tape, which explains why the singer refers to the crew's sound as "orchestrated dirt."

"It's an overdriven, orchestral sound," he said, "but with how it's recorded everything comes out a little dirty."

Reached at home, Lennox, 32, discussed Canada's affinity for orchestral pop, his dreams of becoming a major leaguer and the surprising band he first started listening to as a way to meet girls.

A lot of this orchestral, indie-pop sound seems to originate in Canada. What's your perspective on that as a native Canadian (Lennox was born in Ontario and spent eight years living in Montreal)?

Yeah, you're right. I don't know why. I can't speak for Toronto, but in Montreal there's an open-mindedness to arrangements and to the things that go into making a band that is pretty unique. There's a really democratic spirit in the art scene there ... and that might lead to it.

You sing, "It gets so hard to open up" on "Open Up." Are you generally a more reserved person?

Yeah. Historically I have been a bit more reserved. When you finally open up about something emotionally difficult, it is so cathartic. It's one of those wonderful feelings, so it's something that's been on my mind for a long time.

How did you ever find yourself fronting a rock band if you're so shy?

[Laughs] You know, I've always had a big enough ego to imagine myself in positions of leadership. When I was a kid I wanted to be a baseball player, and I wanted of course to be a pitcher because you're essentially the leader and you're in control and everyone is watching you. Fronting a rock band is kind of the same thing.

Being from Canada, aren't you supposed to be a big hockey fan though?

I used to be, but not anymore. I've fallen out of love with the game a little bit. The season is too long. There are too many concussions. The good players are always out injured.

How would you define the word "wonderlust"?

How do you get to that in just a couple seconds? It's this idea of being amazed by everything that happens in life and how that makes you curious for more.

JOHN LENNOX PERSONALITY TEST

What's the last album you bought? Frog Eyes: "Paul's Tomb: A Triumph"

Song you've listened to on repeat recently? Ooh, that's a good question. I couldn't give the artist, but you know that song, "He wears a purple sash and a black mustache in a honky tonk in Mexico?" That one. (The Coasters: "Down in Mexico")

Song you never want to hear again? The Eagles: "Hotel California"

Best concert you've seen in the last year? What concert have I seen in the last year? Jonathan Richman in Millennium Park.

New band you don't know personally that deserves to be big? That's a problem. I only know bands that I know personally.

Favorite movie ever? I'm going to have to go with "Chinatown."

Chicago's best music venue? The Hideout

What's the last thing you experienced that made you feel that way?

Oh, probably a day at the lake—just the blueness of the water and how cold it is. Long drives across country. I drive up to Canada pretty often, so cutting across southern Ontario at twilight on a hot summer's day is pretty great.

The press release for the album really plays up the analog recording process.

Are you not a fan of digital recording?

I wouldn't say I'm not a fan, but we recorded "Wonderlust" with an eight-track tape machine ... and I think making something unique was important to me. I'm not against digital recording at all, but I think it's hard to make digital recordings sound unique. There tends to be kind of a house sound for everyone using Pro Tools.

What's the inspiration behind the song "A Week of Good Health"?

I was thinking back to when you're a kid and you're sick for awhile ... and then suddenly that day happens where you're not sick anymore and there's that feeling of suddenly being able to run outside and smell what the world smells like again. It's like being born again.

Were you a sickly child or something?

[Laughs] No, no.

In addition to the record release show, you're also scheduled to perform Belle & Sebastian's "The Boy With the Arab Strap" at the Whistler on July 29. Was that an important album for you growing up?

Well, kind of. I first started listening to Belle & Sebastian because all these girls I knew were listening to it, and I was like, "Wow, who is this band all these attractive girls like?"

That's funny. A twee, introspective Scottish group isn't the first that comes to mind for most when it comes to meeting ladies.

Yeah, who knows? I guess there were just some cute girls in that scene.

CONCERT REVIEW

NICKI MINAJ AT CHICAGO THEATRE

By Kyle Kramer

FOR REDEYE

Nicki Minaj's career, it probably doesn't need to be said, is full of contradictions. She is indisputably one of the best rappers working right now, with a history of outshining aggressive, street-minded MCs on their mixtapes and singles while balancing out the genre's typical hypermasculinity with her own Barbie imagery. She also is one of the country's biggest female pop stars, attracting a fan base that probably skews younger and more tutu-clad than any other rapper's (hence some of the seemingly misplaced 2 Chainz audience). Her latest album, "Pink Friday: Roman Reloaded," acknowledges this split fairly explicitly, dividing itself into two separate halves that call to mind The Diplomats and Katy Perry.

Her show Monday at Chicago Theatre followed a similar format, opening with a string of rap songs that included a castle-themed performance of "Roman's Revenge," a 2 Chainz cameo for "Beez in the Trap" and a fan-assisted rendition of "Stupid Hoe" before a costume change and shift to poppier material. The first of two middle segments featured club hits like "Starships" and "Pound the Alarm," while the second (and weakest of the four) was driven by the ballads "Fire Burns" and "Save Me" performed in a Marilyn Monroe wig. Sadly, the thematically appropriate "Roman Reloaded" highlight "Marilyn Monroe" was pawned off on a DJ interlude while Minaj changed into her final costume. That one, a nod to classic hip-hop style complete with heavy gold chains, accompanied a blistering closing section of mixtape tracks and notable feature verses on songs like Drake's "Make Me Proud" and Trey Songz's "Bottoms Up."

It was thrilling to see a rap show with such high production values; tightly choreographed backup dancers offered an energy that the more common choice of letting assorted hangers-on wander around stage doesn't.

Best of all, she brought some of her most passionate audience members up onstage to play hypepeople for the Young Money hit "Bedrock."

This looseness with boundaries—between audience and performer, pop and hip-hop—gave the show a big tent approach that worked fantastically.

It was a night to embrace contradictions, be a "freaky boy," and try something new—ideally a new color of wig. When Nicki modified her line from Kanye West's "Monster" to reflect her change of circumstances—"100 K for a verse, two albums out"—and then launched into the confetti cannon-backed closer, "Super Bass," the juxtaposition, as it had all night, made perfect sense.

Important Digestive Health Alert

FDA Warnings May Have Saved My Life

Startling revelation on possible dangers of antacids in treating stomach woes and indigestion

I am no medical expert. Far from it. Just a regular, busy Mom of four who was miserable for many years with awful, painful stomach issues. Sometimes, I would eat and feel like I was lit on fire. I would start choking, I couldn't swallow properly, I'd break into a cold sweat and then vomit. At those times, I thought that I would never be able to enjoy a meal again.

Last year I broke my wrist, I'm not an old person, I'm 56 and thought I was in decent shape. My Mom, who is in assisted living, also recently suffered from a broken hip. I am still paying the medical bills from all of it. I thought our family was just prone to these fractures until I read an article that stopped me dead in my tracks. It talked about a recent FDA warning that said if you take certain antacids like Prilosec®, Nexium®, Prevacid®, Dexilant®, Zegerid®, Protonix®, Aciphex®, Vimovo®, Prilosec OTC®, Zegerid OTC®, and Prevacid 24HR® that there was an increased risk of hip, bone and spinal fractures. It also said that these medications were not meant to be taken for more than one year for prescription, and for over-the-counter versions (OTC), no more than three 14 continuous day treatments per year unless instructed by a physician.† I almost fainted when I read this because my Mom and I both had been taking them daily for years, but I now understand about what might have happened to us and can't tell you how upset and victimized I now feel.

Thank God I saw the FDA warning. I never would have known certain antacids could be so bad for me!

I went to my Doctor to find out more. He explained to me that massive studies showed these antacids caused side effects including fractures, seizures, bacterial infections, and much more to those taking them, that users must be warned. We are talking about drugs that you hear advertised every day all over TV.

He also explained that they shut down the production of stomach acid, which our bodies need to absorb nutrition and control harmful bacteria. I asked if there was anything else that I could try without the negative side effects. He told me that I might not need a drug at all!

A better alternative is an all natural solution that promotes healthy digestion called AloeCure®, which actually uses pure Aloe Vera to balance stomach acid and has no known side effects.

Maureen Reynolds, AloeCure® Advocate

I wondered how something natural could be strong and powerful, but I was desperate, so I hoped and prayed this was the answer.

I also discovered that there are tales in the Bible of a healing Aloe Vera plant. And that gave me comfort, as I believe that the miraculous powers of natural substances can be even more powerful than some of these chemicals.

My doctor was right. AloeCure® worked. I can eat what I want and sleep through the night. My digestion is healthy and my discomfort is completely gone!

I also gave some to my Mom who is thrilled with the results. I wanted to share my story with other people, so they can experience the relief that I have and not have to suffer the way my Mom and I did. So if you don't believe me, just try AloeCure® for yourself. It is truly a miracle.

Powerful, fast-acting, all natural AloeCure® is available to readers of this publication. There are a limited number of free bottles and bonus gifts and our phone operators are standing by.

Try AloeCure® 100% Risk Free. For a limited time the makers of AloeCure® have agreed to send you up to 6 free bottles plus 2 free bonus gifts with every order. They are yours to keep no matter what. That's enough AloeCure® for 30 days of digestive relief absolutely free.

But hurry! This is a special introductory offer, reserved for our readers only. Call today, feel better tomorrow.

Entertaining stream of consciousness we've come to love from your previous work. Of course, it wouldn't be a Nas album without some dead weight tracks. "Reach Out," featuring

By Ernest Wilkins

REDEYE SOUND BOARD

Thank you, Mr. Jones! It sounds like you finally stopped listening to dummies and just did what you do best. From the intro song (appropriately titled "No Introduction"), "Life is Good" finds you spouting the honest and enter-

Mary J. Blige, screams of an A&R person saying, "Oh crap, we forgot radio singles!" and could be left out.

On the positive side, "Bye Baby" and "Daughters" are both standouts. The former is beyond introspective as he lays bare his issues and relationship with his ex-wife Kelis (that's her dress he's holding on the cover of the album, by the way).

For the first time in years, I can say that I can listen to a Nas album all the way through without rolling my eyes due to insipid concepts and terribly bloated track listings. A solid effort from one of the top 5 rappers ever. Life truly IS good. Pro Tip: Splurge for the deluxe edition of the record, you get three really dope extra songs.

Backstreet Boys in 2005

GETTY IMAGES FILE

Backstreet's back (all right!)

Los Angeles Times

All the fuss over a new crop of boy bands such as One Direction must have spurred the Backstreet Boys to get to work.

Even if they're more of an Encroaching-on-Prime-Adulthood Band these days, the '90s O.G.s of billowing white suits and frosted-tip haircuts announced big new plans Tuesday on "Good Morning America," including a new album that will feature all five original members.

The yet-untitled work will be the band's first with its founding lineup of Nick Carter, Brian Littrell, Howie Dorough, A.J. McLean and Kevin Richardson since 2005 (Richardson announced his return to the group three months ago, after leaving in 2006). The group previously had a successful arena tour with boy band predecessors New Kids On the Block in 2010.

The band is currently working in a London studio with producer Martin Terefe, and the album release is planned to coincide with the band's 20th anniversary next April—an anniversary that should make nostalgic Millennials feel that icy breath of the Reaper on their necks.

CAN THESE FUNNY FOLKS 'IMPRESS THESE APES'?

Meet the new cast of the weekly live talent bout

By Julia Borcherts

FOR REDEYE

No, it's not an alien invasion, but that's not far off the mark. It's time for Season 7 of Blew! Productions' "Impress These Apes," a talent competition in which eight contestants create weekly performances based on new surprise challenges such as horror movie parodies, pranking total strangers and filming the results or developing stand-up routines with a puppet. The performances are rated by a panel of judges dressed in monkey costumes, posing as hyper-intelligent apes from the future. The contestant with the most points at the end of the eight-week run receives the dubious honor of "Least Pitiful Human" and—thanks to a partnership with celebrity businessman Mark Cuban—a $1,000 cash prize.

The finalists were selected from a group of 17 semi-finalists who created and performed two-minute routines in a pre-assigned category—singing, dance or stand-up—for a judging panel comprised of five past "Impress These Apes" winners. We checked in to see what comedy credentials they possess—and the ridiculous routines that got them one step closer to winning it all.

Meredith Kachel

If anyone appreciates irony, it's Chicagoans, and this OutLoud Chicago cast member scored major points with the judges for her routine, in which she sang a ukulele song poking fun at girls who sing ukulele songs sincerely.

Martin Morrow

A stand-up comedy routine about the benefits and drawbacks of being an African-American won a spot in the finals for this 2011 Second City Diversity Program PUMA Scholarship recipient, who has also won the Auburn University Last Comic Standing competition and the Rojo Comedy Competition and has produced and hosted The Edge Comedy Club and the Globe Pub Open Mic.

Joanna Buese

The bassist and vocalist for such bands as Let's Get Out of This Terrible Sandwich Shop and Los Shut Up also performs comedy in the Siren Series at The Second City's de Maat Studio Theatre. She earned her spot in the finals with a dance routine accompanied by the Lionel Richie song, "Running with the Night."

Clay Goodpasture

It's no surprise that Goodpasture, who also can play the tuba and washboard bass, got voted in with a dance routine performed in drag alongside a cardboard cutout of Fabio sporting a hockey mask and knife, set to the theme from "Psycho," which morphed into Gloria Gaynor's "I Will Survive." You also may have seen him in Annoyance's "Splatter Theatre" and "Coot Prison Sluts" and several GayCo sketch revues.

Joe Kwaczala

The resume alone should have been enough to impress the apes—the creator and host of the popular "Late Live Show" is also a frequent Lincoln Lodge host, has opened for a slew of national comedians including Aziz Ansari and Hannibal Buress and has won 57 radio call-in contests. Kwaczala impressed the crowd further by singing the theme song from the "Gummi Bears" cartoon in Japanese.

Need to know

Go: 8 p.m. Monday through Sept. 10 at ComedySportz Theatre, 929 W. Belmont Ave.
Tickets: $10; 773-549-8080; comedysportzchicago.com

Monique Madrid

The Laugh Out Loud Theater cast member—who also performs with comedy duo The Union, writes and directs such shows as "Cougars the Musical," teaches at The Second City and claims that she can belch on command—took her formal dance training to another level with a ballet routine which included voiceovers of herself encouraging herself to perform the ballet routine.

Wolfgang Stein

You may have noticed him in such shows as "True Twilight: A Glee Club Musical," at Gorilla Tango and "Oprah! A Comedy! Live Your Best Laugh!" which ran for a year at the Annoyance. But Stein made sure he stood out in the semi-finals competition by performing a song about being born on the Fourth of July while wearing pants that appeared to have been crafted from a very large American flag.

Liz Thompson

Thompson—who performs with improv troupe Just Hugs—guaranteed herself a spot in the finals by grabbing the "audience favorite" vote with her interactive "psychic" comedy routine, in which she attempted to "pick up the essence" of single men in the audience, aged 28-32, who like children.

games

Squids Wild West iOS

If you're looking for the next "Angry Birds," it might be time to skip out on the sky and head to the ocean deep to check out the squishy heroes of "Squids Wild West." With a nod to America's favorite smartphone game, players slingshot cowboy hat-wearing squids around the sea floor like pinballs to knock out enemy shrimp, crabs and all sorts of other underwater evildoers while avoiding spiky walls and water currents. With more than 40 levels to master and 10 different squids to try out, "Squids" packs in a lot of content for only 99 cents.

Comedy Central's Indecision Game

iOS and Android

Politics are a game, but this new app from Comedy Central works the other way around—it's a game about politics. More specifically, it's a quiz game featuring questions about national politics and current events with a sly satiric bent. The game asks you about your party affiliation, then pits you against Republicans, Democrats or Independents among your friends to see who can win the most electoral votes. Political agnostics who don't know Marco Rubio from Marco Polo will want to sit this one out, but hardcore news junkies should cast their ballots for this free app.

Dungeon Fighter Live: Fall of Hendon Myre

Xbox 360
Perhaps there's something lost in translation because I cannot fathom the appeal of this inscrutable port of a popular Korean game.

Converted from a free-to-play PC browser version called "Dungeon & Fighter" that claims 300 million users worldwide, the Xbox Live version certainly claims many elements of an addicting role-playing game—tons of loot to scour and three multiplayer modes. But the most important factor, fun, is conspicuously missing. Monsters lazily sit there waiting for you to brutalize them with flashy combos and the game inexplicably forces you to play the exact same level three times in a row before you can move on. Unfortunately, it's sort of like being trapped in a real dungeon.

Rare Midwestern beer sightings

Chicago Tribune

Perhaps you remember Winter Brew, the Lincoln Square beer festival held last, um, winter. Well, its slightly sweatier, more scantily clad cousin, Summer Brew, will be happening Thursday, again, in Lincoln Square, and, again, it has been constructed as a salute to drinking locally.

The participating breweries, all of which are a relatively short drive from Chicago, will be pouring beer through the weekend at the inaugural Square Roots festival. But on Thursday, each will have a relatively limited edition beer that will likely be gone that night.

At $20 for entry and $4 per nine-ounce pour (first pour is free with entry), it seemed worth knowing exactly what beers will be served, so we tracked down the rare beer list. Sure enough, you won't find most of these beers too easily.

- » 3 Floyds Al-Dabeyoun (Belgian India pale ale)
- » 5 Rabbit 5 Grass (medium-hopped pale ale with herbs and spices "inspired by the desert")
- » Founders Frangelic Mountain Brown (hazelnut coffee brown ale)
- » Greenbush Brother Benjamin Double IPA (imperial IPA brewed with honey and beet sugar)

BILL HOGAN / TRIBUNE

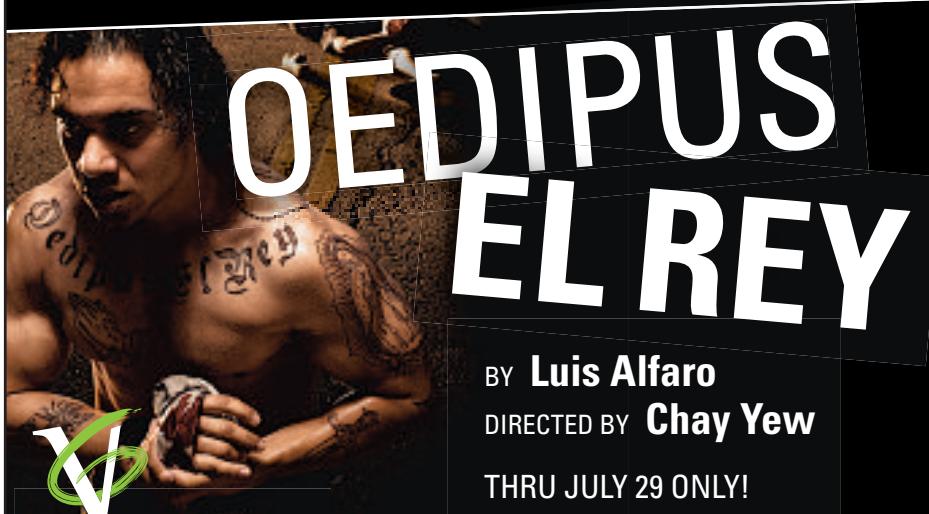

- » Hinterland Grand Cru (American-styled barleywine)
- » Metropolitan Zwickel Flywheel (rare unfiltered version of a German-inspired beer)
- » New Holland Four Witches (black saison)
- » Two Brothers Take Two (a hybrid beer brewed with two water sources, two barley types, two hop varieties, ale yeast and lager yeast)
- » Vander Mill Ginger Peach Cider

Why so Suri?

START HERE!

7 A.M.

The billion canaries that live in my storybook castle bedroom have started twittering again, so I suppose it's time to rise from the boudoir. How is it possible for a 6-year-old to have such dark undereye circles? Somebody get me some damn cucumber slices.

9 A.M.

Now that Mumsy has determined where my schooling will take place, I must take advantage of my last summer of freedom and have a wild playground-chasing fling with the celebrity child of my choosing. Those Jolie-Pitt boys don't stand a chance. Also, apparently something called a Lady Gaga went to this school, which concerns me.

11 A.M.

Just got off the iPhone with Christian Louboutin, re: the status of my exhaustive shoe order. He doesn't seem to understand that I'm perfectly capable of walking in 4-inch heels. Daddy started teaching me years ago. Now I shall play "Angry Birds" for at least 45 minutes. I think I identify most with the blue one that pops into many smaller birds.

1 P.M.

Mumsy, has no one yet told you that 6 is far too old for taking naps? Instead, I shall lay here and plot how I shall exact my revenge while all the while maintaining an adorable facial expression.

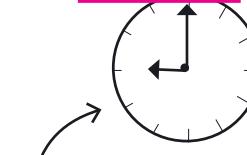

By Dana Moran | REDEYE

Her parents, Tom Cruise and Katie Holmes, wrapped up their divorce settlement in seemingly record time earlier this month, but it's Suri Cruise who's grabbing most of the headlines. Eonline.com is a particular harbinger of Suri stories, drumming up such fantastic headlines as "Suri Cruise Is Determined to Jump This Puddle—Does She Make It?" (OK, that story ran way back in March. Seriously, that's a real headline, look it up.) We took a totally fictional peek inside the mind of the probably-super-cranky 6-year-old to see what her life might be like.

GOOD NIGHT!

9 P.M.

Too exhausted from sloshing every last droplet of water out of the bath to perform any revenge on Mumsy. That doesn't count, because the help will clean it up. Oh well, tomorrow is a new day.

7 P.M.

When I take a bath, I like to imagine that I'm pulling a reverse "Little Mermaid" and swimming away to join King Triton. This mostly involves screaming "Part Of Your World" at the top of my lungs. There are very few paparazzi under the sea, though I fear the salt water would be murder on my skin.

5:09 P.M.

The help finally brings me a juice box. My revenge against Mumsy shall be swift, and potentially involve a bedtime tantrum.

5 P.M.

Have asked Mumsy to bring me an apple juice box, like, 12 times. Where is my juice box? Yesterday she refused to buy me a puppy, and now I can't even get a friggin' juice box out of the woman.

5:05 P.M.

Still no juice box. What the hell.

2 P.M.

It's my favorite time of day: Venturing out into the city streets to purchase a variety of useless trinkets, aka Get Mumsy Some Good Post-Breakup Press. Mumsy, I liked your hair so much better when we had matching bobs, even though I know it was Daddy's idea.

One Amazing Night for One Amazing Cause

YOUNG ASSOCIATES BOARD

A Legacy Organization of The Gus Foundation

Don't forget to come to the Young Associates Board's 10th Annual Run for Gus and Party July 26th in Lincoln Park. Visit runforgus.org to learn more.

On Thursday night, July 19th join the Young Associates Board at many of the hottest restaurants and bars throughout the city as we present Pediatric Brain Tumor Awareness Night 2012.

All you need to do is show up at your favorite venues listed below and our generous sponsors will have drink and/or food specials available for you.

Every dollar raised will make a difference in the lives of children with brain tumors by supporting pediatric brain tumor research and treatments, as well as family support services at Ann & Robert H. Lurie Children's Hospital of Chicago.

So come out Thursday and join our cause. Learn more at <https://www.facebook.com/youngassociatesboard/events>

—Jennifer Lopez, on “Good Morning America,” on whether she’d be open to marriage again

Casting call

Off-beat character actress Amanda Plummer will bring her kooky charm to “The Hunger Games: Catching Fire,” Lionsgate said Tuesday. She’ll play Wiress, who becomes a key ally of heroine Katniss Everdeen.

THE DIGIT

17 That’s how many strategically placed tiny men are crawling over Lady Gaga’s naked body in a sexy and bizarre (sexyzarre?) new ad for her fragrance, Fame. She probably needed a little spritz after roasting in the audience at the Pitchfork Music Festival last weekend.

Good ‘Knight’

How big will “The Dark Knight Rises” be when it drops Friday? According to industry insiders, the answer is: HUGE! The latest Batman flick is generating more audience excitement than the three highest-grossing movies of the past 12 months, latimes.com reports, and has a chance of beating the $207 million opening-weekend record set by “The Avengers” in May.

Pardon the meth

Building a meth kingdom is harder than it looks. “Breaking Bad” creator Vince Gilligan tells rollingstone.com. “There are so many I’s to dot and T’s to cross when you’re on your meteoric rise to becoming Scarface,” he said of lead character Walter White. “And a lot of paperwork that needs to get done, you know? The paperwork is endless.”

Also, no 401(k) or dental coverage.

Cruise control

Tom Cruise on Tuesday made his first visit to daughter Suri in New York since he and Katie Holmes reached a divorce settlement July 7, people.com reports. Separately, Holmes and Suri were OK after a garbage truck collided with the car they were riding in Monday.
